RE: ILCOR Builders

To whom it may concern,

I have worked with ILCOR builders on three separate occasions. I highly recommend them for three main reasons. First, they are honest and have impeccable integrity. Secondly, they stick to a job until it is finished. Third, they work with you and align their interests to your interests when it comes to working with all the different subcontractors, city officials and related parties.

The projects they worked on were at my home and to redevelop a 1950's office building. The residential projects consisted of turning a driveway that dropped down sixteen (16) feet from the street into the bottom floor of our house into a flat, level driveway with a carport. This project enabled us to turn the garage into an extra 600 square feet of living area very inexpensively. The other project at our home was a full kitchen remodel that turned our 1980's dark kitchen into a beautiful French inspired kitchen which opened up walls so we could see the downtown Austin from the kitchen. The commercial project was a full remodel of a pier and beam 1950's office which included working on the roof, hvac, full interior remodel, parking areas, etc.

I highly recommend using ILCOR and would use them again.

Sincerely,
